11 Saskatchewan men charged in child porn sting

National investigation. Five children rescued countrywide during Operation Snapshot III

SARAH TAGUIAM
sarah.taguiam@metronews.ca

Eleven Saskatchewan men have been charged following a multi-agency, Canada-wide police investigation into child pornography.

The arrests came through Operation Snapshot III, which involved 40 RCMP and municipal police forces across Canada — including Saskatchewan's Internet Child Exploitation (ICE) Unit.

More than 150 people were arrested or remain under investigation as a result of the four-month operation.

"This is the biggest coast-to-coast child pornography investigation involving all jurisdictions in Canada ... and one of the biggest in Saskatchewan," Staff Sgt. Ron Weir of Regina police and the provincial ICE Unit co-ordinator said.

Five children under the age of 10 were rescued by police as part of the investigation. Two of the kids are from British Columbia, while the other three are from Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick.

The Saskatchewan unit initiated 15 investigations and executed 12 search warrants throughout the province. The 11 suspects in Saskatchewan face a total of 33 charges, including accessing child pornography, possessing child pornography and making child pornography available, according to police.

Investigators believe there are no associations between the suspects. Thousands of images and videos in addition to several computers and media devices were seized during the investigation.

"They were all very graphic videos and images," Weir said.

"A lot of them have to do with toddlers and infants and anything to do with abusing children in the province and Canada is obviously disturbing to us."

Saskatoon RCMP Sgt. Darren Parisien said the investigation could move beyond Canada.

"I would be shocked if there are not some international investigations stemming from arrests here in Canada," Parisien said.

Saskatchewan's ICE Unit includes eight investigators and four forensic technicians from RCMP, the Prince Albert Police Service, the Saskatoon Police Service and the Regina Police Service. Operation Snapshot III comes after two similar multi-agency investigations in 2012 focusing on the Prairies and northern regions, and another in Atlantic Canada last year.

Caused one death

Not-guilty verdict for woman who says she fell asleep at the wheel

A Saskatchewan woman who testified she fell asleep at the wheel has been found not guilty of dangerous driving causing death.

Marilyn Hunter, 34, admitted she had a couple of drinks, was tired and had nodded off as she was driving on a highway in April 2012. One of her passengers, 22-year-old Ryan Dubois, was killed when Hunter hit a ditch and rolled her vehicle.

A Regina Court of Queen's Bench judge has ruled there wasn't enough evidence to convict Hunter.

The judge said she wasn't satisfied that Hunter knew, or should have known, her fatigue posed a danger at the wheel.

Hunter's defence lawyer said his client is "obviously relieved."

"This has been a very difficult few years for her," Greg Chovin said Thursday.

"The deceased was a family member and I have no doubt that she's glad to have the legal part of things behind her."

Hunter admitted to being tired and having a couple of drinks a few hours before the accident, which occurred around 5:30 a.m. Road conditions were said to have been good at the time and there was little traffic. Excessive speed was ruled out as a factor in the rollover.

Hunter was also facing two other charges related to impaired driving. One charge was stayed and the judge found police evidence pertaining to the other charge to be inadmissible.

Former RCMP officer Laura Lehne, who filed a harassment complaint against the now-suspended Meadow Lake RCMP detachment commander in 2009, spoke to media outside RCMP headquarters in Regina on Thursday. Lehne said she's surprised that the complaint against the commander didn't surface sooner. Inset: RCMP spokesman Sgt. Craig Cleary said the suspended commander was the subject of an internal complaint in 2009. SARAH TAGUIAM/METRO

RCMP officer faces internal investigation

Suspended with pay. Specific details were not made available, but Sgt. Craig Cleary said the same Mountie faced allegations in 2009

The commander of a northern Saskatchewan RCMP detachment has been removed from his post while the force investigates what it describes as inappropriate workplace behaviour.

Sgt. Craig Cleary says the staff sergeant in Meadow Lake was suspended with pay on June 10.

Cleary added that he "can't get into the specific details of the allegations" or name the commander unless the investigation leads to a formal disciplinary hearing.

However, he confirmed it's the same Mountie who faced allegations in 2009.

Cpl. Tim Korman was accused of sexually harassing a female subordinate, but an RCMP review panel said in March 2009 it had no choice but to reject the complaint because the case had taken too long to be heard.

A top Mountie also missed, by one month, a deadline to file paperwork needed to deal with the complaint.

Laura Lehne alleged that Korman had made offensive and sexually explicit comments about her, then punished her after she filed her complaint by denying her backup in the field, taking her off training courses and changing her shift assignments when the two served in Buffalo Narrows, Sask., in 2004.

The allegations against Korman were not proven in court or in internal RCMP proceedings.

Chief Supt. Garry Jay said in 2009 that while the panel didn't hear details of the allegations, there was merit to the case.

Lehne, however, told reporters on Thursday that the issues haven't been addressed.

"They promoted him the day our hearing was tossed," Lehne said in Regina, "and it doesn't surprise me that we're here again."

Lehne signed an agreement for an undisclosed sum that saw her drop legal action against the RCMP. She also quit the force.

Ex-premier Blakeney gets his due

Tribute. Province unveils monument in politician's honour at legislature

The Saskatchewan government has erected a monument at the legislative grounds in honour of former premier Allan Blakeney, who is regarded as an instrumental figure in the creation of Canada's publicly funded health-care model.

"He was a key player in introducing Medicare (and also) brought in home care (and) the children's dental program," NDP Leader Cam Broten said of Blakeney, who died of cancer in April 2011.

"Under his leadership, Saskatchewan led Canada and helped make this country a much better place."

Blakeney, a New Democrat who served as premier from 1971 to 1982, led what many describe as one of the province's most interventionist governments.

PotashCorp started as a Crown corporation under his watch. Blakeney was also influential as a cabinet member in the implementation of Saskatchewan's Medicare program in the early 1960s.

The memorial came with controversy after a spokeswoman for Premier Brad Wall's Saskatchewan Party government asked media by email not to attend its unveiling at the wishes of Blakeney's family members.

An NDP spokeswoman said later that the family would have welcomed media at the unveiling, and added by email that "to intimate that they demanded privacy during a public event is extremely unfortunate."

Jason Quilliam, the province's chief of protocol, apologized to media on Thursday, saying he had requested only that the press not approach the family during the event.

A "miscommunication," he said, resulted in his office informing the government's media-relations arm that the press wouldn't be welcome.

"It was never the intent that the media (be) excluded," Quilliam added.

Toronto. Air Canada flight to Brazil forced home due to unscreened passenger

Canadian officials were saying little Thursday about a security lapse at Pearson International airport that prompted them to order an Air Canada flight with 189 passengers en route to Brazil to return to Toronto after several hours in the air.

Air Canada said Flight 090 took off for São Paulo at around 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, unaware a passenger had boarded without proper screening.

"With the aircraft already in the air for four hours, we were notified of this and ordered by Transport Canada to have the aircraft return to Toronto," Air Canada spokesman Peter Fitzpatrick said in an email.

The plane landed at 6:30 a.m. at Pearson and was surrounded by police.

Airport authorities had said Wednesday that all departing international flights from Terminal 1 were suspended while police searched for a man who had passed through security unchecked.

An Air Canada flight to Brazil was forced to return to Toronto early Thursday due to a security breach.

Peel regional police said Thursday they were called to the airport for a "security breach" to try to identify the man who had triggered the alert. Using surveillance footage, they were able to determine he had boarded the Air Canada flight.

Officers interviewed him on the plane's return to Canada.

"We found there was no criminality involved and that was pretty much it," Const. George Tudos said. "At that point, he was allowed to reboard." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twitter. Despite positive PR potential for police, study points out pitfalls

Police forces across the country are flocking to Twitter, breaking news about arrests, soliciting tips from the public and offering real-time information during disasters.

But a University of British Columbia researcher says services like Twitter also present pitfalls as officers blur their professional and private lives.

Sociology professor Christopher Schneider has released a study that found police forces in Canada primarily use Twitter as a public-relations tool, with some forces such as Toronto police even encouraging individual officers to tweet from their own accounts.

Schneider's research identifies potential dangers, such as officers tweeting sensitive information or writing something offensive.

And he says while personal tweets might help present an officer as likable, they may also undermine the authority of police forces. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Justice minister defends remarks on female judges

Gender offender. Peter MacKay had said fewer women apply for federal bench positions to stay home with kids

Federal Justice Minister Peter MacKay is defending comments he made last week about why so few women are appointed as judges in Canada.

MacKay was responding to Wednesday's Toronto Star report about an Ontario Bar Association meeting at which he was asked about the lack of women and minorities on federally appointed court benches.

MacKay answered the question by saying that women don't apply to be judges because they fear the job will take them away from their children — and that children need their mothers more than their fathers, the Star report said.

On Thursday, rather than back away from the comments, MacKay stood his ground.

"At early childhood, there's no question I think that women have a greater bond with their children," he said.

Canada needs more women to apply for judicial appointments, he continued, before walking away from reporters.

Later in the House of Commons, opposition MPs pounced on MacKay's comment, declaring them sexist and demanding an apology.

"I ask the minister to apologize to all Canadians for blaming motherhood for his abject failure to ensure that the federal court reflects the diversity of society," said Liberal MP Carolyn Bennett.

MacKay insisted, however, that he was being unfairly maligned.

"That, of course, is a complete mischaracterization of what I said, what I think, how I act and who I am," he told the Commons. Judicial appointments are made solely on the basis of merit, he added.

"With respect to minorities and women being promoted to the judiciary, I think we can all agree that government, of course, plays an important role in that, but so too do law schools and law societies, and that is exactly the message I was bringing to the Ontario Bar Association." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Conservative responses

Some of MacKay's Conservative colleagues appeared uncomfortable with his remarks.

- Calgary MP Michelle Rempel said parliamentarians should celebrate women, no matter their career choices, including staying at home.
- Ontario MP Mike Wallace refused to comment on the matter, saying it's up to MacKay to defend his own statements.
- And Quebec MP Maxime Bernier laughed off the comments, but was quick to point out that he has a "special bond" with his daughters.

Teacher raped at prison: Report

Arizona facility.
Woman left alone in a room of sex offenders was stabbed, sexually assaulted, records say

A teacher at an Arizona prison was alone in a room full of sex offenders before being stabbed and sexually assaulted by a convicted rapist, according to documents obtained by The Associated Press about an attack that highlighted major security lapses at the facility.

The attack occurred Jan. 30 at the Eyman prison's Meadows Unit, which houses about 1,300 sex offenders.

The teacher was administering a high school equivalency test to about a half-dozen inmates in a classroom with no guard nearby and only a radio to call for help.

The Department of Corrections issued only a bare-bones press release after the attack, but the AP pieced together what happened based on interviews and investigatory reports obtained under the Arizona Public Records Act.

After the last of the other inmates left, Jacob Harvey asked the teacher if she could open the bathroom and then attacked her, records show. Harvey is accused of stabbing her in the head with a pen and sexually assaulting her.

The teacher told investigators that she screamed for help, but none came.

Afterward, Harvey tried to use her radio to call for help. It had apparently been changed to a channel the unit's guards didn't use, so Harvey let the woman use a phone, according to the reports. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dudes, where are the women in video games?

A scene from the Ubisoft video game Tom Clancy's Rainbow Six: Siege. Female protagonists are still in short supply in games. COURTESY UBISOFT

At last week's Electronic Entertainment Expo, video game developers hyped upcoming titles featuring supersoldiers, assassins, bank robbers and secret agents. They all had one thing in common: They're men.

The continued lack of female protagonists in games shown off at E3 highlighted an issue that continues to loom over the video game industry. Why is it still such a dude fest?

"It's boring that we're continuing to have this conversation," said Belinda Van Sickle, president and CEO of the advocacy group Women in Games International.

"I started in the industry nine years ago and it seems like we're having the same conversation with the same responses from industry insiders, gamers and the media. It needs to be more substantive."

While there were a few notable exceptions at this year's E3 — like thrill seeker Lara Croft in Rise of the Tomb Raider and sci-fi survivor Amanda in Alien: Isolation — male characters still far outnumber female protagonists in video games. Everyone has a different answer as to why the issue persists.

"The more women we have playing games, the more we will be able to have a balance between women and men in the games," said Yves Guillemot, CEO of Ubisoft.

Ubisoft came under the most fire at E3 after revealing that the playable characters in the co-op modes of both its historical adventure Assassin's Creed: Unity and shoot-'em-up Far Cry 4 would all be men. Despite the fact previous instalments of those series featured female avatars, the developers cited technical limitations for the lack of girl power.

"Any character you create requires extra resources, gender aside," explained Eric Hirshberg, CEO of Activision Publishing. "Any character that has a different look, voice, mechanics or way of moving, requires more work.... But that's not a reason not to do something. We create lots of different characters with lots of different movements." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. Colleges asked to collect better stats on dating violence, stalking

The Obama administration wants colleges and universities to compile statistics on stalking, dating violence and domestic violence as part of its ongoing effort to curb sexual assaults on campuses.

The Education Department proposed a new rule Thursday designed to provide a better picture of these problems.

The proposed rule change falls under the Clery Act, which requires colleges and universities to report crime statistics on or near their campuses and provide warnings in a timely manner if safety is threatened. The Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act of 2013 signed by President Barack Obama amended the Clery Act by extending additional rights to campus victims.

Victims' advocates have said the statistics, as currently compiled, don't paint an accurate picture of the extent of sexual crimes on campuses.

Heated discussion, then ...

"We actually agreed on everything at the end of the day."

Laura Dunn, founder of SurvJustice, who served on the committee, said she's pleased with the outcome.

"These new rules strengthen schools' capacity to provide safer college campuses for students and to keep everyone better informed about campus security policies and procedures," Education Secretary Arne Duncan said.

Among the other proposed rule changes: adding gender identity and national origin as categories of bias under the Clery Act's definition of hate crimes; strengthening confidentiality protections for victims; and requiring that discipline is "prompt, fair and impartial."

L.A. Law that bars people from living in parked vehicles is struck down

A U.S. federal appeals court on Thursday struck down a 31-year-old Los Angeles law that bars people from living in parked vehicles, saying the vaguely written statute discriminates against the homeless and poor.

The ruling involved a 1983 law that prohibits the use of a vehicle "as living quarters either overnight, day-by-day, or otherwise."

The court said the law was unconstitutional because its ambiguous wording does not make clear what conduct would constitute a violation and "criminalizes innocent behaviour."

The decision came in a case brought on behalf of four people who were arrested in the Venice area by Los Angeles police.

Attempted murder, armed robbery charges for teens

An armoured-car guard is in critical condition after being shot several times during a robbery attempt near a bank in Toronto early Thursday, and police say he and his partner were also targeted earlier this month.

Toronto police Staff Insp. Mike Earl said the guard, who returned fire, took four rounds to the body.

A second guard never got out of the locked truck.

Three men, all 18, were later arrested. Among the charges laid are attempted murder, armed robbery, conspiracy, wearing a disguise with intent and firearms-related offences.

Americans have come a long way from hunting and gathering food

Evolution or devolution?
People in the U.S. don't even have to wander the chilly grocery aisles to buy food anymore — there is a buffet of firms who will do it for them

Americans now have the option of letting the groceries come to them. Several companies are offering same-day delivery services. SPENCER PLATT/GETTY IMAGES FILE

If you dread making supermarket runs, you're in luck.

Same-day grocery delivery services from Google, Instacart and Postmates are expanding into more cities around America, delivering everything from cereal to bottled water to toilet paper from nearby stores.

The Associated Press tried out all three services. They're fast, easy-to-use and way more convenient than waiting in the checkout line. All three deliver from local stores in the U.S., as well as some big national chains, such as Whole Foods, Costco and Target.

The services across America are different from more established grocery delivery companies such as FreshDirect, Peapod and AmazonFresh, because they don't actually sell groceries directly to you. Google Shopping Express, Instacart and Postmates merely send someone to stores in your neighbourhood. It works like this: You select what you want online or on an app, choose a delivery time and the service will deliver the items to your door.

But convenience comes at a price. The delivery charges can vary greatly. Google and Instacart offer flat rates, while Postmates' fees depend on the distance of the delivery. And you may want to tip the delivery people. All three companies say it's not necessary, but Instacart and Postmates allows you to add a tip while shopping on the app or website.

Besides delivery costs, Instacart charges a premium for items from some of the stores it delivers from. That means you will end up paying a lot more than if you walked over to the shop and bought it yourself.

Another downside: Getting your groceries delivered means you may be missing out on using coupons or browsing for cheaper alternatives in the store. And the orders do not always go according to plan.

How the services measure up

Google Shopping Express
- Items listed on Google's service match those of the stores it works with.
- The company doesn't deliver meats, fish, fruits or other perishables.
- $4.99 US for each delivery.

Instacart
- Prices are higher on items from stores it doesn't have a relationship with.
- You can order from Costco even if you don't have a membership.
- Two-hour deliveries are $3.99, one-hour are $14.99.

Postmates
- Besides groceries, the company delivers from local restaurants, drugstores and fast-food joints.
- Delivery fees start at $5 and are determined by distance. A nine per cent service fee is also charged.

Dov Charney. Montrealer who rose to infamy as head of American Apparel is out

The board of American Apparel voted to oust founder Dov Charney as chairman and notified him of its intent to remove him as president and chief executive, the clothing chain says.

The move means Charney was suspended as president and CEO of the Los Angeles-based chain pending a contractually required 30-day period before he can be terminated.

The board's statement said that the proposed firing is for cause, and cited an "ongoing investigation into alleged misconduct," without giving details.

"We take no joy in this, but the board felt it was the right thing to do," said Allan Mayer, one of two board members appointed co-chairmen to replace Charney. "Dov Charney created American Apparel, but the Company has grown much larger than any one individual and we are confident that its greatest days are still ahead."

Harry Potter. Fans shell out bundles of muggles money at Universal Orlando

Harry Potter fans helped increase attendance by 50 per cent at Universal Orlando Resort in the past few years, and interest in a second Harry Potter park opening there July 8 could keep numbers going up. But even if the new park doesn't lead to the surge in visitors that accompanied the original Harry Potter park, Universal's cash registers will surely be ringing.

The new Wizarding World of Harry Potter-Diagon Alley has just one ride: a 3D thriller called Harry Potter and the Escape from Gringotts.

The first Harry Potter park had three rides. But Diagon Alley has seven shops, all so visually stimulating that you almost don't notice you're shopping.

Diagon Alley even has its own currency, so guests can swap U.S. dollars (muggles money) for wizard cash, to spend or to keep as a souvenir. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1 Futbol anyone? You can always count on the World Cup to elicit some hardcore patriotism. After all, what could be more pride-inducing than watching professional soccer players from different countries play for other countries to millions of fans cheering vehemently for the nation they came from but no longer live in?

2 Scientific breakthrough. A University of Toronto research centre has developed a groundbreaking scheme that could cure major diseases plaguing humanity for ages. It's daring. It's radical. It's called ... sharing! How does it work? Imagine someone in Europe makes an experimental breakthrough, but is missing one crucial element. Enter U of T's recent genetic advancements, combine them, and it's the peanut-butter cup of life-saving science. Sounds gimmicky to me. It'll never catch on.

4 Runneth over. The L.A. Kings won the Stanley Cup and all I can think about is how greedy that city can be. They already have Hollywood, warm weather, hot celebrities, the Oscars, the Kardashians and Donald Sterling. Do they really need our hockey? Winnipeg has none of that. Let's give THEM the cup. #LAKings

5 Pass it over. A 22-year-old threw a football over a Michigan prison wall. Unfortunately, it missed its unknown recipient and landed between two security fences. Officers recovered the ball, which was stuffed with weed, heroin, tobacco and three cellphones with chargers. He was charged with three counts of furnishing contraband to inmates, and shattered his dream of ever playing in the NFL. #dumbcriminals

6 Not-so-free agent. The San Antonio Spurs won their fifth NBA title in 15 years with a convincing victory over repeat champs the Miami Heat. Now, we shift our focus to LeBron James as he fields offers from other teams with championship potential that will no longer be able to afford the players they already have. #SpursNation

7 Mayoral theatrics. Actors from all over Canada flocked to Toronto's legendary sketch-comedy residence, The Second City, to audition for Rob Ford The Musical: The Birth of a Ford Nation. As a former Second Citizen myself, I assure you that the position won't be cast based on physical traits. The role will be assigned to the performer who best embodies the elements that bring truth to the character. Also, very few physical props are used, so any crack-smoking will be mimed. Can't promise the same for the "drunken stupors."

8 Eastbound for sound. Music lovers looking for a brief Canadian getaway are invited to join me next week for the Festival International de Jazz de Montréal. Montreal is beautiful in the summertime and even better with performances from Aretha Franklin, Elvis Costello, Michael Bublé, Nikki Yanofsky and I'm especially looking forward to hearing Snoop Dogg rap in French. #FIJM

9 Final broadcast. The world mourns the loss of entertainment icon Casey Kasem this week. I'd like to send out this long-distance dedication to the man whose voice taught us new words on Sesame Street, devoured Scooby snacks as Shaggy, and counted down the hits for us each week. Though his feet may no longer be on the ground, may he always be reaching for the stars. #RIP

The future will be hoverized

Mark De Roche says the company hopes their hovercrafts will have recreational applications. "Our goal is to set up air parks where people can be trained in a scenic environment as the hovercraft doesn't damage land in the same way that a car does," he says. COURTESY AEROFEX CORPORATION

Introducing Aero-X

Sci-fi hovers into reality

A sci-fi hover bike, akin to the flying forest speeders from Star Wars: Return of the Jedi, is set to take off by 2017. The Aero-X, designed by Californian-based Aerofex Corporation, uses ducted rotors in a similar fashion to a helicopter but with far greater control. The aircraft, which costs $85,000 US and can fly at 72 km/h, will only hover to heights of 4.5 metres, so that a pilot's licence isn't required. Chief technology officer Mark De Roche tells Metro why we'll all be riding into the future on a hovercraft.

Did you decide to design this after watching Star Wars Episode VI: Return of the Jedi? (Laughs) I hate to disappoint but I've only seen one of the Star Wars movies and it didn't influence the design.

In the James Bond movie Die Another Day hovercraft float over minefields. Are the military interested? It's not going to be used by the military at this stage. But the Aero-X can be used for ranching, crop dusting, and search and rescue.

Is it like riding a hovercraft or a motorcycle? It's probably closer to a motorcycle. You're in a dynamic air environment. At first your eyes are fixed on the ground but when you get used to focusing on the horizon and adapt to the winds, you're transported into a different element. You bank into a turn based on the wind like sailing — you get an intuitive sense about the wind.

Do you require a helmet? I didn't wear one for quite some time and the guys and I decided it was reckless. We were in the desert so I didn't feel much need but it's likely depending on the laws of a country whether a helmet will be required. METRO

Music saves the Jersey Boys

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Jersey Boys opens this weekend. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

Based on the Broadway hit of the same name, Jersey Boys begins in 1951 Belleville, N.J. and follows childhood friends Frankie Valli (John Lloyd Young who won a Tony for his performance of Valli on stage), Tommy DeVito (Vincent Piazza) and Nick Massi (Michael Lomenda) from the streets to the studio and with the addition of songwriter and keyboardist Bob Gaudio (Erich Bergen), from clubs to concert halls as the Four Seasons, one of the biggest-selling acts in rock history. Hits like Big Girls Don't Cry, Walk Like A Man and Can't Take My Eyes Off You kept them at the top of the charts — but ego, infighting, and money troubles blew them apart.

Go for the tunes, not the theatrics.

Clint Eastwood-helmed rags-to-riches music tale lacks realism, but is saved by a bunch of earworms that will have audiences tapping their toes

Richard: Mark, I thought director Clint Eastwood set up the story of the band well enough. From their hardscrabble beginnings to the height of their success, it's a rags-to-riches story and when it focuses on the four band members, it works.

Unfortunately it takes a cast of characters to tell the tale, and Eastwood seems content to allow his supporting actors to go off-the-charts theatrical. By the time the end credits roll, it's clear that the movie is a caricature of a real-life story.

Nothing feels completely genuine, as if the theatricality of the stage version bled into the film.

Mark: Richard, I think I know when the film goes off the rails.

When the band breaks up two-thirds of the way through, everything that follows feels forced, cheesy, and the emotions play a bit phoney.

But I still enjoyed the movie. I saw the theatrical version twice and I'm a big fan of the group.

The music makes a bigger impact in the stage version, but some of the characters play better in the film.

None of the acting is stellar, but it's always fun to watch Christopher Walken do his "good mobster" schtick, and Erich Bergen as Bob Gaudio, the brains of the group, really stood out for me.

RC: The songs are undeniably catchy and well performed by a cast, three-quarters of which come from the various incarnations of the stage show.

They are earworms that sound authentic, by and large thanks to Young who perfectly mimics Valli's soaring multi-octave falsetto voice. The bulk of the movie, unfortunately, doesn't soar as high as Young's voice. The Broadway show is basically a rock concert with a story. The big-screen treatment requires more.

MB: I thought it did — in places. The feuding between the members of the group worked better in the movie, but the opening scenes of Italian boys in da hood has been done many times before, and went on way too long. Note that it takes one full hour before they sing their first hit, Sherry.

The movie filled in a lot of texture about the Jersey mob and life on the road that wasn't in the play, but you know, Richard, it's about a rock group in the 1960s, so I don't even have to like it to like it.

RC: I liked the style, the songs, but I wanted more from the characters. The songs will stay in your head; the characters won't.

MB: And after Valli got his name upfront of the group, shouldn't it technically have been Frankie Valli and the Three Seasons?

Love and survival behind bars

Orange is the New Black stars Taylor Schilling and Uzo Aduba talk about all of Season 2's drama, from Piper's new tough-girl persona to the good intentions behind Crazy Eyes' not-so-good behaviour.

MIRIAM OSBORNE
miriam.osborne@metronews.ca

Taylor Schilling, left, and Uzo Aduba catch a flick inmate-style on Orange is the New Black. NETFLIX

Orange is the New Black Season 2 opened with a vengeance and never turned back.

In the first season we're introduced to a timid, naive Piper Chapman (Taylor Schilling), an upper middle class, well-educated 32-year-old yuppie finding her way through prison life after being sentenced to 15 months for carrying drug money 10 years prior.

But in Season 2, months into her sentence, Chapman survives on her newfound reputation as a thug after Season 1 ended with her beating a fellow inmate senseless.

This Chapman has a better understanding of what it takes to survive in prison.

"There's a shedding of a skin," Schilling says of her character's hardened shell this season. "There's nothing she can do but adapt."

Chapman is not the only inmate at Litchfield prison who's flexing her muscles. Things get dark in Season 2, and no character gets as dark as Suzanne "Crazy Eyes" Warren, played by Uzo Aduba.

Vee, a sort of den mother and repeat inmate at the prison — and possibly the most terrifying character on television — wants to run the prison, and with that, all the contraband coming in. So she taps into Crazy Eyes' vulnerability, using her need to be respected to do so.

Acting as Vee's enforcer gives Crazy Eyes a sense of purpose. Aduba points out that Vee is one of only two fellow inmates (Chapman being the other) who refers to her by her proper name as Suzanne.

"It's like she feels seen by them," Aduba says. "Vee gives her time and dignity by saying that her job on the work crew was respectable, and that gave her something that she hadn't really been given by any other inmates."

Without giving away too many spoilers for those viewers taking their time to get through this season (seriously, watch it, so the rest of us who have can stop talking in hushed tones!), Crazy Eyes takes on her role as Vee's "muscle" with all the vigour you'd expect of someone named Crazy Eyes. Though Aduba sees it a bit differently.

"She was protecting what she loves. It's always with good intentions she does these things. That was how I was able to not judge her, because her thing isn't that she's enraged, she's just in love."

Orange is the New Black touches on a lot of things: racism, white privilege, sexuality, transgender issues, religion.

Above all, what comes out is the human instinct to survive at any cost, our basic need to fit in, be respected and, Aduba is quick to add, be loved.

"But Suzanne is definitely starting to learn as the season winds down that love hurts a whole lot. Sometimes you give all of yourself to it and see very little return."

Dramedy

- Is Orange Is the New Black a comedy? A drama? Taylor Schilling says, like life, this show is a bit of both. "My experience of life is that these extremes exist, often so close to each other, even if it's the extreme of anger and sadness, or rage and humour. There's just so many extremes that smack up against each other in real life and that's what this show does, I think. This show has so many different colours that meet in the middle, including drama. It's really hard for me to make that call."

Polaris Music Prize. Drake, Arcade Fire on the long list

Past winners Arcade Fire and Owen Pallett have been named to the long list for this year's Polaris Music Prize.

The 40 contenders for the annual $30,000 award were announced Thursday at Calgary's National Music Centre.

Many other previous Polaris contenders made the cut, including Calgary singer/songwriter Chad VanGaalen, Toronto hip-hop artist Drake, Vancouver-based rapper Shad and Toronto multi-instrumentalist Basia Bulat.

First-timers vying for the Polaris include Hamilton singer/producer Jessy Lanza, Inuk throat singer Tanya Tagaq and Halifax rock duo Cousins.

The annual prize is awarded to the best Canadian album of the prior year as selected by a broad swath of journalists, bloggers and broadcasters, without regard for genre or sales.

Last year's prize was claimed by experimental Montreal collective Godspeed You! Black Emperor, while other winners have included Feist, Caribou and Patrick Watson.

The short list of 10 contenders will be announced July 15 in Toronto, while a winner will be crowned Sept. 22 during a gala at the Carlu. THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's London calling for LiLo! Starlet embraces new city (and a new beau?)

Lindsay Lohan apparently has been wasting no time getting her new London life up and running — including her love life. The starlet has been linked to British actor Tom Bilkey, with the pair spotted out and about. But Bilkey insists they're just friends. "I met Lindsay four years ago through mutual friends when I was working in L.A.," he tells the Daily Mirror. "She's actually really down-to-earth and cool. I think she likes the scene over here." Whether or not Lohan is getting romantic with Bilkey, she's definitely falling for London. "Lindsay's convinced everyone in America is out to get her, but she's had the opposite experience in London," a source previously told Radar Online. "She loves British culture and says people have treated her with respect for the first time in years. Now she's looking into the immigration process and planning a full-time relocation."

Kanye West and Annie Leibovitz have issued a joint statement clarifying comments the rapper made recently about the photographer.

The Thursday statement says West's comments Tuesday at the Cannes Lions international advertising festival regarding Leibovitz's availability to shoot his wedding "have been taken out of context and sensationalized."

West was frustrated that he couldn't secure Leibovitz's services for his marriage to Kim Kardashian last month, the statement says, but he was not assigning blame.

The new King of Spain begins his royal reign

MELINDA TAUB
Metro World News

Spain has a new king! Also a new queen, two new princesses (well, they were princesses already), and a retired ex-king. All hail King Felipe VI, Queen Letizia, and Princesses Leonor and Sofia.

"But wait," I'm sure you're saying. "A European royal family did something? Where are the commemorative plates? Why aren't I watching an E! special about it?" That's because the Spanish royal family rolls a little differently than our pals the Windsors — especially now, when Spain's economy is so bad. Felipe has promised to focus on austerity, and he set a good example with his coronation, which may have been the least fancy coronation since the Middle Ages — instead of a big, splashy ceremony with an international guest list and lots of parties, Felipe opted for a slimmed down event with relatively few guests and little in the way of pomp.

That's not the only unusual thing about this coronation: The reason Felipe has ascended to the throne in the first place is because his father, 76-year-old King Juan Carlos, decided to abdicate. Juan Carlos, who helped moved the country from fascism to democracy, has always been extremely popular with his subjects, but of late the Spanish royal family's reputation has taken some hits. Felipe's older sister Princess Cristina is embroiled in a tax scandal, and many are questioning why a cash-strapped nation needs to foot the bill for a royal family at all, even a relatively cheap one.

Fair point! Here is my counterpoint: Look at those adorable little princesses. You don't want them to have to grow up and get jobs, do you?

Why you gotta be so mean? Yahoos throw bottles at Taylor's house

Taylor Swift has some rather angry detractors out there, and apparently they like to take their anger out on her Watch Hill, Rhode Island vacation home. Three Connecticut residents were arrested last weekend on misdemeanour charges for throwing beer bottles at the home and shouting "F— you!" and making rude hand gestures at security guards, according to the Westerly Sun. The trio "extended their middle fingers" at the guards, though one suspect insisted to authorities that they were making a hand gesture Swift uses in one of her music videos as a way to pay tribute to her. All three were charged with misdemeanour disorderly conduct and released. Swift was not at the property at the time of the incident.

To say Natalie MacLean loves Canadian wine would be an understatement. The award-winning blogger has been an ardent supporter of our home-pressed juice since starting her popular wine review site nataliemaclean.com.

For the last few weeks, MacLean has been hosting The Great Canadian Wine Match: an online contest to find Canada's ultimate barbecue wine. Wine lovers across the country have nominated their favourites and have been encouraging others to vote for their picks. Voting ends today, so if you want to have your say, head to her site.

I always struggle when it comes to mentioning Canadian wines in this column. Popular in their own provinces, most don't have national distribution. That is starting to change.

Larger markets have recently received an allotment of Benjamin Bridge's 2013 Nova 7 ($24.99 - $25.95). Nova Scotia's aromatic, signature wine tastes like summer in a glass, with a light fizz lifting its zesty, citrus flavours.

Strawberry-Balsamic Glazed Pork Tenderloin.

Summer starts tomorrow and this little red berry is the star of the season

When you discover foods that have a natural affinity for one another, it's easy to find numerous excuses to enjoy them together.

One such combo is strawberries and balsamic vinegar. Both sport assertively sweet, nicely acidic flavours that not only work well together, but also pair up wonderfully with so many other foods.

For grilling season, pork tenderloin that is slathered with a strawberry-balsamic glaze just makes sense. For optimal flavour, the pork gets hit with the strawberry-balsamic blend three times.

1. In blender, combine strawberries, oil, vinegar, honey, garlic, salt and pepper. Puree until smooth. Pour about a third of mix into saucepan and set aside. Pour another third of mix into large non-reactive bowl. Pour the remaining sauce into a small bowl.

2. Slice pork tenderloins into 1/2-inch rounds. A few at a time, place rounds between sheets of plastic wrap, then use the meat mallet or rolling pin to carefully pound the rounds to an even thickness of about 1/4 inch. Place the pounded rounds in the non-reactive bowl with the sauce, turning to coat evenly. Refrigerate for 30 minutes.

3. After the pork has marinated for 20 minutes, heat a grill to medium-high.

4. Place saucepan of strawberry-balsamic sauce over medium-low heat on the stovetop. Bring to a simmer and cook, stirring frequently, for 8 to 10 minutes, or until thickened. Cover the pan and remove from the heat.

5. When the pork has finished marinating, use an oil-soaked paper towel held with tongs to oil the grill grates. Place the pork rounds on the grill. Baste the pork with the sauce set aside in the small bowl. Grill for 3 to 4 minutes, then flip the rounds, baste again and cook for another 3 to 4 minutes.

6. Divide pork among 6 serving plates; spoon simmered sauce overtop. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients

- 1 cup fresh strawberries, hulled
- 2 tbsp olive oil
- 2 tbsp balsamic vinegar
- 2 tbsp honey
- 3 cloves garlic
- 1/2 tsp kosher salt
- 1/4 tsp ground black pepper
- 2 lbs pork tenderloins

Summertime and the shrimp cocktail is sweet

For summer, update the classic shrimp cocktail by creating a strawberry base. Like the tomatoes in ketchup, strawberries offer a balance of sweet and acidic. Boost the flavour with garlic, ginger and jalapeno, and you have a lot of deliciousness.

Ingredients

- 1 quart strawberries, hulled and halved
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1-inch chunk fresh ginger, thinly sliced
- 1/2 to 1 jalapeno pepper, halved (remove seeds, if desired)
- 1/2 tsp kosher salt
- 1 tsp ground black pepper
- 2 tsp sherry vinegar
- 1 tbsp lemon juice
- 1 tsp sugar
- 1 lb cooked shrimp, shells removed, chilled

1. In a medium saucepan over medium-high heat, combine the strawberries, garlic, ginger, jalapeno (more or less, depending on your heat tolerance), salt, pepper, vinegar, lemon juice and sugar. Bring to a simmer and cook, stirring frequently, for 20 minutes. Transfer to a blender and purée until smooth. Transfer to a bowl and refrigerate until well chilled. When the cocktail sauce is chilled, divide it between individual serving bowls or glasses and accompany with shrimp. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Did you know? NAD spreads awareness about the cultures and traditions of First Nations, Inuit and Métis people of Canada

LUCY HAINES
For Metro

From its origin in 1996, National Aboriginal Day (NAD) — joining First Nations, Inuit and Métis in honouring their diverse cultures, unique heritage and long traditions — has grown to bring Canadians together in celebration of the contributions Aboriginal People make to the country.

According to the declaration made by former governor general Romeo A. LeBlanc, it was appropriate to give a yearly day to mark and celebrate the Aboriginal People to Canada, and to recognize their different cultures.

For Nelson Mayer, executive director with the Alberta Native Friendship Centres Association, NAD is all about cultural pride and identity. "This day is especially important for our young people, who gain pride and confidence when we highlight the significant contributions Aboriginal People have made in Canada," he said.

There are three groups of Aboriginal People: First Nations, Inuit and Métis, along with several language families. For example, the Beaver and Tahltan languages are part of the Athabascan language family. Many Metis speak Michif, while Inuit often speak Inuktitut. And, if you want to refer to all the First Nations in Algonquin (another of the many aboriginal language families), you would use the word anicinabec.

Recognized every June 21 from coast to coast, NAD kick starts Celebrate Canada!, an 11-day celebration that includes Saint Jean Baptiste Day (June 24), Canadian Multiculturalism Day (June 27) and ends with Canada Day (July 1). June 21, the summer solstice — the day of longest light, and a day of spiritual significance to many — was chosen as the date for NAD because of its symbolism to the culture.

Did Aboriginal People inspire our two national sports, lacrosse and hockey? You bet. Do you know who does throat singing? The Inuit. Many of the events around the country serve to educate and involve fellow Canadians about aboriginal culture, whether through traditional games, dances and concerts, or workshops on food-making and medicinal plants.

Join your fellow Canadians to celebrate NAD this weekend.

What's on in your city?

How will you celebrate National Aboriginal Day (NAD)? Thousands across Canada will celebrate on June 21, whether on their own, taking a trail walk or peaceful, morning paddle in a river canoe; with family and friends at a barbecue; or with the community at large attending a pancake breakfast, concert or traditional food and dance demonstrations.

The moment the sun peeks over the horizon on the morning of June 21 marks the first day of summer and the longest day of the year — a day anticipated in cultures around the world for millennia.

The summer solstice is a particularly culturally significant time among Canada's First Nations, Inuit and Métis, celebrated across the country.

"With a diversity of our nations, [summer solstice] would be celebrated in so many different ways — through ceremony and feast, and gathering and celebration," said Trina Mather-Simard, festival director of the Ottawa Summer Solstice Festival.

Since 1996, June 21 has also been celebrated in Canada as National Aboriginal Day, recognizing the diverse and vibrant aboriginal cultures across the country.

The Summer Solstice Aboriginal Arts Festival, held in Ottawa on June 21, is one of the few celebrations across Canada that brings together all three cultural groups: First Nations, Inuit and Métis.

First Nations traditions are reflected throughout the Summer Solstice Aboriginal Arts Festival. At the Competition Powwow, traditional drummers and dancers will compete for $75,000 in prizes with performances in different style categories.

National Aboriginal Day. Celebrated in many ways

Other than the constant of a summer solstice date — June 21 — celebrating National Aboriginal Day (NAD) doesn't mean any one particular thing. It's not a location or a signature event; each citizen and every community can do whatever has meaning to them, but ideas abound on how to mark this special day.

At Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Canada (AANDC), suggestions for traditional activities, school and youth group events, and community happenings provide an array of possibilities — a powwow, drummers, traditional games of lacrosse or dancers (First Nations, Inuit and Métis), storytelling and arts and craft displays — these are traditional ways to celebrate, and are oft-chosen so as to recognize the aboriginal heritage and culture as part of the fun.

"We hold a walk for friendship, and others are making dream catchers at a weekend event — it all brings attention to this great day," said Nelson Mayer, executive director of the Alberta Native Friendship Centres Association.

A school or community group might invite an aboriginal elder to speak on local history. Essays and artwork displays, aboriginal food preparation (bannock baking, for example) and field trips to a local aboriginal site can be part of the experience, too.

AANDC encourages aboriginal and non-aboriginal communities to plan community breakfasts, barbecues, food-making or medicinal plant workshops, concerts with aboriginal performers, a walk on a historical trail or even presenting films and plays produced by Aboriginal People, like the Dreamspeaker Festival in Edmonton, which took place in May.

Think outside the box, AANDC said.

Powwows a time to join friends

Tradition. Event a celebration of all things First Nations

MICHELLE WILLIAMS
For Metro

To some it's simply a gathering of people. To others it's a competition, a tradition, a festival, an arts and crafts venue and a food fair.

But one thing everyone agrees on is the Native American powwow is a celebration of all things First Nations. Since anyone can remember the pow-wow has been a staple in most First Nations sects.

Although the exact origin of the term is still up for debate, many agree it is now about reuniting with old friends, making some new ones — and joining together in dance, song and preserving and sharing Native culture.

"The powwow concept has not changed over thousands of years since their beginnings on the western plains of Turtle Island (North America)," states the Canadian Aboriginal Festival.

"We are told by our elders that in the beginning, the gatherings were usually held in spring and the fall when people from various nations would gather. Over the years, the look and style has evolved to include English, as well as other cosmetic changes such as colourful regalia."

Those differences aside, the heart and soul of the powwow remains in tact, with several held each year across Canada and the United States.

"The powwow is an important vehicle for handing down Native traditions from one generation to the next," they state. There are several components to the powwow including dances, both social and competitive, singing, chanting and drum groups.

Powwows are a tradition thousands of years old. CONTRIBUTED

Music. Great White North has its own Idol

American Idol might have Kelly Clarkson and Carrie Underwood, but the Great White North's very own Aboriginal Idol has Nathan Cheechoo and Martine Fortin.

For the past three years, the N'Swakamok Native Friendship Centre has hosted its very own singing competition in honour of National Aboriginal Day.

Anyone of aboriginal ancestry has been welcome to compete for the top prize totaling $1,000 in cash this year, as well as a professional photo shoot, a one-on-one music session with Jace Martin on how to pursue a career in music and a stage performance for 2015 National Aboriginal Day.

Teresa McGregor, founder and organizer of Aboriginal Idol, said the vision has always been to encourage aboriginal youth to chase a career in the arts, and the results speak for themselves.

"The very first Aboriginal Idol winner just received hais grant to produce his own album," McGregor said. "This is exactly what we want to do. We want to boost their self-esteem."

The 2012 winner was Nathan Cheechoo, a young man who credited the competition with inspiring him to take his music seriously.

"Aboriginal Idol helped me reignite a flame and spirit for music, as well as giving me the confidence to pursue that passion that had laid dormant for too long," he said. "Aboriginal Idol is a great place to start and is organized by a great crew of friendly people. I recommend you enter." While the deadline for submissions ended on May 30 this year, the N'Swakamok are encouraging those who qualify for entry to submit a YouTube video of themselves for next year's entry to nswakidol@gmail.com.

Namerind Housing Celebrates National Aboriginal Day

National Aboriginal Day brings us a chance to reflect on ways to come together as a community. At Namerind, we are proud to employ all those in the Aboriginal community - First Nations, Metis, Non-Native, Visible Minority, and women in non-traditional roles. Community support is central to everything we do, from supplying safe, affordable housing to investing in community services like our Winnipeg Street Pharmacy.

We acquired the Winnipeg Street Mall at 1106 Winnipeg Street in Regina in 2009. When we took over management, the mall already housed a community clinic, which was home to seven doctors and two nurse practitioners. We discovered that there was an unmet need in the community and opened a pharmacy to service patients in the surrounding neighbourhood, keeping costs for customers as low as possible. Under the PharmaChoice banner, our pharmacist Bev Brooks provides much needed healthcare support and counsel from Monday to Friday each week.

Pharmacy Hours: 8:30 – 12:00 and 1:00 – 5:30 Monday through Friday
Free city-wide delivery

To further support the health of our community, we opened The Resting Place, which provides a fully-furnished home away from home for those in town for medical appointments or treatments. For more information on these and our other community projects, please visit www.namerindhousing.ca.

All profits from the pharmacy and the Resting Place are reinvested back into Namerind Housing Corporation so that we may continue to provide affordable housing to the Aboriginal community in Regina, while creating economic opportunities and focusing on Namerind's financial and environmental sustainability.

Aboriginal Day Live about to make its mark

TV broadcast. Billy Ray Cyrus, Lightning Cloud, and Yvonne St. Germain headlining this year

STEPHANIE ORFORD
For Metro

In 2007, Aboriginal Day Live & Celebration began as an hour-long live broadcast of four aboriginal musicians on the Aboriginal Peoples Television Network (APTN), hosted out of a small park in Winnipeg, but its creator, Sky Bridges, always had bigger plans.

The event has evolved into a cross-country festival of musical performances and cultural activities.

Now it involves more than 14 musicians and many more arts and cultural activities, broadcasting live performances from two locations: Winnipeg and Halifax.

"We get artists to add other elements [to their performances] they might not have done before," Bridges explains.

Highlights this year include international country music star Billy Ray Cyrus, Canadian gospel singer Yvonne St. Germain, accompanied by a full choir, and rap/hip-hop group Lightning Cloud, who will perform a special set just for the show.

"Every single act is bringing something very special to the stage," said Bridges.

Bridges, now the COO of APTN, thought of the idea for Aboriginal Day Live & Celebration after noticing that National Aboriginal Day on June 21 wasn't celebrated on a national level.

"We wanted to create a celebration of National Aboriginal Day that could create a new dialogue with Canada around aboriginal cultures, as well as create a space for Aboriginal People to celebrate who they are and express themselves in music and culture," explained Bridges.

Aboriginal Day Live & Celebration is helping aboriginal artists change how they celebrate their identities, traditions, histories and art across Canada, he says, particularly since the event incorporated social media over the past three years.

"We're trying to close the gap in indigenous education," explains Betsy Chaly, vice president of communications and marketing for Indspire, a national charity dedicated to helping indigenous youth achieve their potential. "The impact of investing in one indigenous student leads to benefits for many generations to come."

The Indspire Institute provides coaching, curriculum, events and more for educators of indigenous youth from kindergarten to Grade 12. "It's designed to encourage collaboration between educators to help create success for indigenous students in finishing high school," says Chaly.

Soaring is a series of career conferences held across Canada, bringing indigenous high school students together with businesses to learn about career opportunities. "These students wouldn't normally be exposed to opportunities like this. It's a way for them to discover what jobs are available to them with these companies and how to get there," says Chaly. Industry in the Classroom is another Indspire program, bringing indigenous role models into classrooms to speak to the students about specific careers in their industry.

Since lack of resources is such a challenge for indigenous post-secondary students, Indspire provides them with funding through Building Brighter Futures bursaries and scholarships.

"We have a commitment from the federal government to match up to $10 million that we raise before March 31, 2015, dollar for dollar," explains Chaly. "Many corporations, including CIBC, the province of Alberta, Shell, HSBC Bank Canada and BMO have already demonstrated their commitment, as have individuals from across the country."

Pirates scale wall for 12th inning walk-off win over Reds

Pirates right-fielder Gregory Polanco can't squeeze a ball hit by the Red's Joey Votto for a double in Pittsburgh on Thursday. Pirates catcher Russell Martin didn't start the game but he ended it when he drew a bases-loaded walk off Tony Cingrani with two outs in the 12th inning. Pittsburgh won 4-3 to avoid a three-game sweep. GENE J. PUSKAR/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Provincial bragging rights on the line

Football. Riot will battle Valkyries for conference supremacy, berth in WWCFL final

MORGAN MODJESKI
Metro in Saskatoon

This weekend's Western Women's Canadian Football League Prairie Conference Final is expected to be a Saskatchewan-style showdown.

The Saskatoon Valkyries and Regina Riot will go head-to-to head at Griffiths Stadium on Sunday afternoon to determine which team advances to the WWCFL final on July 5.

Despite the added pressure of a provincial rivalry, both teams are going into the game feeling well prepared.

Regina Riot head coach Darren Fisher said he's confident his team can topple the three-time WWCFL champs.

"It's always exciting when you're playing in Saskatoon because there's that natural rivalry," said Fisher. "They're great people on that team, so it's a lot of fun to play them and it pushes us to be better."

Kickoff

Sunday's WWCFL Prairie Conference Final starts at 1 p.m. at Griffiths Stadium in Saskatoon.

Riot safety Adrienne Zuck says she's looking forward to the challenge.

"I almost enjoy being the underdog," she said. "Because you go in there and you've got nothing to lose."

Valkyries quarterback Candace Bloomquist said she's "cautiously optimistic," adding her team has been working towards a unified front all season.

"Our offensive's key word this year is trust," Bloomquist said. "I said this to the team pretty often previously — we've got to trust our coaches, trust each other and trust yourself to do the best you can possibly do."

Valkyries head coach Jeff Yausie said both teams would be working hard for a chance to play in the championship.

"They want to take it to us and we want to take it to them and in the (conference) final, there's really nothing better than that," he said.

Coveted prospect fractures foot

Kansas centre Joel Embiid, one of the top prospects in the upcoming NBA draft, has a stress fracture in his right foot and is scheduled to have surgery on Friday.

Embiid's agent, Arn Tellem, made the announcement on Thursday, a week before the draft. Tellem says Embiid fractured the navicular bone in his right foot and will be unable to participate in any additional workouts. He also will not attend the draft in New York. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ducks headed in different direction

Centre Saku Koivu and goalie Jonas Hiller are done with the Anaheim Ducks.

Koivu, Hiller and forward Daniel Winnik won't be offered contracts by the Ducks for next season, general manager Bob Murray confirmed Thursday.

The Pacific Division champion Ducks recently played to the best regular season in franchise history and a second-round playoff exit. They will allow young talent to assume bigger roles next season.

Anaheim also is in the trade market for an elite centre. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tigers halt Royals short of sweep

Anibal Sanchez pitched seven sharp innings, and the Detroit Tigers ended Kansas City's 10-game winning streak with a 2-1 victory over the Royals on Thursday.

J.D. Martinez hit a tiebreaking homer in the fourth for the Tigers, who avoided a four-game sweep and pulled within a half-game of the AL Central-leading Royals.

England twice bitten by Suarez

Big-time brace. Upon return from injury, controversial Uruguayan striker preys on shaky England's back line

Uruguay striker Luis Suarez celebrates his second goal on Thursday in Sao Paulo. MATT DUNHAM/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Luis Suarez scored twice to give Uruguay a 2-1 victory over England at the World Cup on Thursday, making an instant impact in his return from injury to revive his team's Group D campaign.

The Liverpool striker, who hadn't played since undergoing surgery on his left knee last month, lashed in the winner in the 85th minute, after seeing his first-half opener cancelled out by Wayne Rooney.

After surprisingly losing its Group D opener to Costa Rica, Uruguay's qualifying chances have now been given a major lift, while England's hopes of advancing to the round of 16 are in real jeopardy after its worst World Cup start in more than half a century.

Suarez seemed to revel in inflicting England's second successive loss in Brazil, having been punished twice by the country's Football Association for misdemeanours, serving bans for racism and biting in the Premier League.

90-minute blockbuster

"If this was a movie, people probably couldn't have wished for a better result, at least in Uruguay."
Uruguay coach Oscar Tabarez

Of Uruguay's six efforts on target, five were from Suarez — including the two that beat goalkeeper Joe Hart as England's slack defending was exploited.

"I dreamt this," Suarez said at the Itaquerao Stadium in Sao Paulo. "I'm enjoying this moment, because of all I suffered, the criticism I received. So, there you go."

By taking his World Cup tally to five goals, Suarez ensured that Rooney's first-ever goal in 10 matches on football's biggest stage was in vain.

- Italy and Costa Rica, who both have three points, meet for their second group game on Friday. Uruguay now has three points, while England is on zero points after consecutive defeats.

Rooney tapped the ball home from close range in the 75th minute after connecting with Glen Johnson's pass. Having also lost against Italy, England now faces the prospect of not advancing from the group stage for the first time since 1958.

"We are a team that is making progress but results decide everything and both results have been negative," coach Roy Hodgson said.

"Where does it leave us? I don't know. I don't quite know."

Star search. Personal glory not Balotelli's M.O.

Mario Balotelli
GETTY IMAGES

Mario Balotelli couldn't care less if he's mentioned in the same breath as Neymar or Lionel Messi at this World Cup — as long as he comes away with the trophy.

Having scored the winning goal in Italy's 2-1 win over England and now getting ready for Friday's match against Costa Rica, the forward has gained more attention than any other Azzurri player in Brazil.

"I hope this is Italy's World Cup, not Mario's. I'm not really interested in being compared with the big stars," Balotelli said Thursday. "In the end it's the squad that wins. I don't want to be a big star. I want to win the World Cup."

"Personally, I want to score as many goals as possible," he added. "But the important thing is that the squad wins and advances."

87 detained after stadium break-in

FIFA has acknowledged being embarrassed by a security lapse that let ticketless Chile fans rampage into the Maracana Stadium.

Fences have been breached by fans at both World Cup matches staged at the country's most prestigious stadium which hosts the final on July 13.

"It is embarrassing," FIFA director of security Ralf Mutschke said Thursday, one day after dozens of ticketless Chile fans broke into the stadium ahead of their team's 2-0 win against Spain.

Brazilian authorities said 87 people were detained after smashing their way through a perimeter wire fence into the stadium media centre.

Offence cancelled. Greece stays afloat after red card

Referee Joel Aguilar passes judgment on Greek captain Kostas Katsouranis on Thursday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Reduced to 10 men after captain Kostas Katsouranis was sent off in the 38th minute with his second booking, Greece held on for a 0-0 draw with Japan on Thursday that kept both alive in Group C and sent rival Colombia through to the knockout round of the World Cup.

Both teams inserted new strikers in search of goals and a first victory, but ultimately the main objective was survival and both achieved that with one match left in group play. Japan would have been eliminated with a loss in Natal.

Group C

After Katsouranis was sent off for his rough challenge on Makoto Hasebe, Greece withdrew into a defensive setup and held firm. Greece surrendered three goals in a loss to Colombia, but even short-handed was better organized against Japan.

"My players were brilliant," said Greece coach Fernando Santos. "They worked hard after the red card. Without the red card we probably would have won the game."

Katsouranis will be suspended for Greece's final group match against Ivory Coast.

Earlier Thursday, Colombia was pushed by a partisan crowd that turned Estadio Nacional into a sea of yellow as James Rodriguez and Juan Quintero scored in a six-minute spell in the second half to beat Ivory Coast 2-1. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

Aries
March 21 - April 20
Money and possessions are important, but don't make too big an issue of them. Over the next few days you should concentrate more on relationships, especially family.

Taurus
April 21 - May 21
You may be tempted to interfere in someone's personal situation but no good will come of it. You cannot do everything for everyone, so decide who is on your help list and let others learn from their own mistakes.

Gemini
May 22 - June 21
The Sun is about to leave your birth sign and it won't be long before you notice a difference in the direction your life seems to be taking. The important thing is that you don't try to stop the inevitable.

Cancer
June 22 - July 23
There is an urgency about you now that has been lacking in recent weeks and it will grow many times stronger when the Sun moves into your sign tomorrow. Your life is about to take a huge turn for the better.

Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
If you play hard to get today you may send people the wrong sort of message. For one thing they may believe you no longer care, which of course isn't true. Make yourself available.

Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
When the Sun changes signs tomorrow it's quite likely you will become aware of a better way to reach your aims and fulfill your desires. There's no rush, so take your time.

Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
It's good that you have the confidence to take risks but not good if you take them wildly. As the Sun nears the career angle of your chart make sure you don't do anything silly at work.

Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You may be tempted to end a relationship that has been going through stormy seas but is that really a wise move? To be on the safe side wait until the Sun changes signs tomorrow. You attitude may also change.

Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
The most important thing now is that you do not allow vague fears to hold you back from what you are planning. A number of things can go wrong but even if they do the consequences won't be so bad.

Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You seem to have resigned yourself to the idea that you will have to take a loss on something that hasn't been working out the way you planned. Don't be too hasty.

Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Can you trust what other tell you? You cannot. They may not be trying to trick you but there is reason to believe they themselves have been deceived, so err on the side of caution.

Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Fate will take its chosen path no matter what you may think about it, so go with the flow and adapt to what happens. One of the best times of the year is about to begin. You have nothing to fear. SALLY BROMPTON
